

[from Fall 2007]

What Do Bill Moyer and Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge Have in Common?

To unravel the mystery, call your friends, family, and even people you don't like and ask them to watch or listen to Bill Moyer's Journal on September 21, 2007. He'll be devoting the full hour to discuss Rachel Carson, considered by many to be the mother of modern-day ecology. In addition, he'll focus on the actress Kaiulani Lee, who portrays Rachel Carson in an ever popular one-woman play titled "A Sense of Wonder." Check local listings on PBS for up to date TV schedules.

Why is this of interest to you? Kaiulani Lee recently performed at the Chincoteague Community Center. The performance was sponsored by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Chincoteague Natural History Association. It was an unforgettable experience cherished by many in the audience who were deeply moved. Before, during, and after the performance, Kaiulani Lee was interviewed and filmed by a representative from the Bill Moyer Show. If you missed the performance, that's okay. Consider this a second chance to be intrigued by someone whose portrayal of Rachel Carson is extraordinary. Kaiulani Lee, an actress and writer, utilizes over 35 years of theatrical, film, and television experience to bring alive this story of one woman's love for natural world and her fight to defend it.

To learn more about Kaiulani Lee and her play, visit her website at <http://www.kaiulanilee.com>. Go to <http://www.fws.gov/rachelcarson/> to learn more about Rachel Carson and the 100th anniversary of her birth.